PUTS HYMIE AT MURDER SCENE

Was in Apartment at Time of Slaying, Cleveland Officer Says.

NEW EVIDENCE INDICATED

Says Betty Gray "Told Plenty;" Continue Hunt for "Akron Mary."

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 21 — "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin was in the apartment where former Councilman William E. Potter was shot to death at the time of the slaying, Deputy Sheriff Fred C. Alber declared today.

Heretofore the evidence as revealed to the public had placed Martin in the death suite only the day before the killing. Alber declined to enlarge upon his statements or reveal whether the investigators had uncovered any "surprise witnesses."

Martin is charged with Potter's murder, but so far the case against him had consisted of circumstantial evidence. He had been identified as the renter of the murder suite and as one of Potter's companions seen downtown on the day of the killing.

Betty Is Talkative

Alber asserted Mrs. Betty Gray, who occupied the apartment below the one in which Potter kept his fatal appointment, had "told plenty," but would not reveal her tsetimony.

The deputy's statement came on the heels of Martin's confession that he and Mrs. Mary Outland Woodfield lived at a Pittsburgh hotel for three days after the slaying, an admission which spurred detectives into a redoubled search for the woman.

The hotel suite was raided by Pittsburgh detectives yesterday. They found a number of belongings of Martin and "Akron Mary," among them a pair of trousers which were to be analyzed for possible blood stains.

First Break in Silence

Martin's admission that he and the woman were together until the day of his arrest was the first he had made during days of questioning. He had been identified as the renter of the suite where Potter was shot to death, but has refused to discuss the case.

Detective Peter Allen was in Steubenville today checking a report that the woman had become a waitress there. From there he will go to Pittsburgh, hoping to pick up her trail. Police believe she can tell them of Martins whereabouts the night of the killing.

Telephone calls made by Hymie or Mary to Steubenville while they were in Pittsburgh also were being checked.

RECEIVER FILES FINAL REPORT FOR RAIL LINE

C., M. & B. Passes Out of Existence as Court Releases Whysall of Duties.

PAYS $28,983 ON BONDS

Holders of Second Mortgage Securities Not Included in Final Settlement.

Holders of $250,000 in bonds on a second mortgage held by the Irving Trust Co. of New York against the defunct Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railway Co., failed to get a cent in the final settlement of the company's accounts, it was disclosed in the final report of Receiver George Whysall which was filed yesterday afternoon in common pleas court.

The Guardian Savings & Trust Co. of Cleveland, which held $47,000 in first mortgage bonds, received $28,983 in the settlement. Their claim was given priority over that of the New York firm.

The $28,983 represented the balance left after all other claims had been paid. A total of $36,806.65 was received by Whysall from the time he was appointed receiver on May 13, 1930, until the books were closed, and this sum was all paid out.

Physical assets of the company now are in the hands of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co., which is continuing to operate the 18-mile-line from Marion to Bucyrus which was owned by the defunct company. The line first was sold last Nov. 3 to Malo Bros., local junk dealers, for $31,500, and later was purchased from the Malos by the C., D. & M.

Action for the receivership was started last May by the Titus Machine Works, which claimed the company owed it a bill of $109.37 which it was unable to pay.

The $36,806.65 which Whysall received during the receivership period included the money obtained from the sale of the line, from the company's receipts in passenger fares and freight charges and from traffic balances. The expenditures included the $28,983 item to the Cleveland banking firm, $2,000 received by Whysall as his fee, and $3,897.29 in traffic balances. Other expenditures include taxes, wages and salaries.

MRS. VALORE GETS LIFE PRISON TERM

Accuser of Husband in Five Murders Sentenced with Two Others.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 21—Mrs. Cecelia Valore, 26, and Mike and Angelo Bell, brothers, were sentenced today to life imprisonment on their pleas of guilty in the murder of R. Miller Wilkison, Princeton university senior. Mrs. Valore's husband, Ross, 19, already is serving a life term in the penitentiary on conviction in the killing.

Mike Bell will be one of the youngest of penitentiary prisoners. He is 16 years old. His brother is 20.

Wilkison was shot to death several months ago when the three men held up a fashionable house party which he was attending. Mrs. Valore accompanied the men on the holdup expedition.

Three days ago Mrs. Valore astonished police by accusing her husband of killing Dr. Alfred Scully and four other men. Despite an investigation and arrest of several suspects, investigators were unable to confirm the accusation however.

In the killing of Wilkison, Mrs. Valore made an unexpected plea of guilty after several days on trial. Later she said her husband had treated her brutally, kept her in constant fear, and had forced her to accompany him on the holdup.

CITY MUST CURTAIL ALL IMPROVEMENTS FINANCED BY BONDS

Legal Limit to Which Municipality Can Issue Securities Reached, Officials Say; 1931 Sewer, Street Program Halted.

Marion can make no improvements to be financed by bond issues until after Sept. 1 this year, city officials revealed today.

With the city already handicapped in its 1931 program by the lack of sufficient funds for operating expenses, announcement that the absolute limit in the amount of bonds and notes the city can issue had been reached brought added troubles to officials.

Up to Limit

With the saturation point for general bond issues reached, officials are obliged to cancel a tentative improvement program embodying the construction of a $25,000 fire alarm system, the construction of city streets, continuation of a five-year sewer improvement program estimated to cost $3,600 this year, hospital and sewage disposal plant improvements and other projects likely to become necessary this year.

Two factors have been largely responsible for the city reaching its bond limit.

First, several major improvements made in the last few years have been expensive ones for the city. Notable among these are Main street and Center street paving, where the city was obliged to pay 50 per cent of the cost of construction and the cost of intersections. Had these been new constructions instead of reconstruction jobs the cost to the city would have been only two per cent instead of 50. These and several other similar improvements helped boost the city's general bonded obligations.

Tax Values Cut

A second factor is the 10 per cent cut in the taxable valuation of buildings in the city by the county auditor last year. This cut reduced the general bond limit of the city by a margin of $28,179.30, officials say. The city is legally allowed to issue general bonds up to one per cent of the taxable duplicate of the corporation. This does not include assessment bonds. The duplicate was reduced from $50,239,100 to $47,421,170 by the cut, according to computations of officials.

Bond and notes issued in 1930 contributed $210,895.33 toward the total of the general bonded indebtedness. During the same period only $92,000 in general bonds were retired.

Of the $210,895.33 issued in notes and bonds last year $80,940.07 in notes was for seven improvements made during the year including the improvement of Main, Pros-

HOME BREWING IS GIVEN BOOST

Wickersham Evidence Reveals Woodcock Advocating "Home Option."

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Two packing cases bulging with "the evidence" upon which the Wickersham report based its amazing conclusions on prohibition were in the hands of the senate today.

The evidence, or that part of it which the commission dared or cared to make public, proved as paradoxical and conflicting as the report of the commission itself. It ranged all the way from testimony that prohibition is a grand success to testimony that it is an absolute failure, and it was gleaned from persons in many walks in life.

Of all the thousands and thousands of words, probably the most important were those of Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition enforcement director in the administration's new enforcement set-up under the department of justice.

Col. Woodcock candidly admitted that home-brewing and home-winemaking violates the spirit of the prohibition law, but he saw no way of overcoming it, and, in fact, he gave home-brewing a sort of lefthanded indorsement.

Terms It "Home Option"

"Home option" was the phrase used by the prohibition director in describing the policy he believed best calculated to apply to the situation. Under "home option" those who want beer and wine may make and have them, and those who don't want them don't have to have them.

In presenting his theory, Col. Woodcock said:

"If a citizen possesses liquor, or makes liquor in his home, and in such way as not be observed by the public, and if he properly supports his family, this policy would require that he be not disturbed.

"If he fails in a single public duty, if he breaks the peace in any way, if he fails to take care of his family, if he fails to keep himself fit to perform any public duty, the state steps in and punishes.

"This plan makes unlawful all commerce in liquor, does not compel the dry to support a state dispensary, leaves the wet in the full enjoyment of any right which he

BISHOP ENDS 20TH YEAR IN PRIESTHOOD

Ohio Catholic Prelate Sees End of Prohibition Within 20 Years.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 21—Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of the Cleveland Catholic diocese today celebrated his twentieth year as a priest.

In an interview the bishop said that in the next 20 years prohibition will be only a memory; that normalcy will have returned to the United States—normalcy in the living habits of its people, in their amusements and in employment.

Bishop Schrembs, who came to Cleveland from the Toledo diocese said that work is one of the greatest blessings of man, not for what it provides, but for what it gives. "The unemployed can be given food but that it not what he wants. They want work and it is a curse not to have it."

The bishop said prohibition was an unfortunate thing and has made the United States a nation of lawbreakers and hypocrites. "Prohibition tries to legislate the people into virtue which is impossible," he said.

Pilot Trucks of Train Derailed; Crossing Scene of Many Accidents.

Special to The Star.

BUCYRUS, Feb. 21 John Straub, 29, was instantly killed and his brother Floyd, 27, was probably fatally injured in a railroad crossing accident here at 1:30 p. m. today.

The two brothers, bakers from Crestline, were delivering a truckload of bread from Crestline to bakers here when they drove into the path of a fast westbound Pennsylvania passenger train.

The accident occurred at the Whetstone street crossing, the scene of several serious accidents in the last two years. John Straub was driving the truck. Floyd was taken to the Monnette hospital where little hope was held for his recovery.

The pilot trucks of the train engine were derailed for several hundred feet but were righted at a switch, without damage to the train.

Floyd Straub is married and is the father of two children. John Straub also is married.

The bread truck was demolished. Dr. George Mahnhardt of Galion, Crawford county coroner, was called and Sheriff C. Fred Vollmer started an investigation. The body of the dead man was removed to the Munz undertaking parlors to await funeral arrangements.

FIRE SWEEPS BLOCK IN COOPERDALE, O.

Phone Operators Stick to Posts in Burning Building To Summon Aid.

By The Associated Press.

COSHOCTON, O., Feb. 21 Fire destroyed a business block of Cooperdale, near here, late last night, with a loss estimated at $100,000.

Included in the path of the flames were two garages, the telephone exchange, a residence and a general store warehouse, recently stocked with groceries. Two other residences were damaged.

The fire was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Garfied Watson, who operate the telephone exchange over their residence. Mr. and Mrs. Watson remained at the switchboard, calling for aid after the building was in flames. A call to this city for help was refused due to the fact that no pumpers are included in the Coshoction fire fighting apparatus.

The Pennsylvania Railway company aided a bucket brigade by hauling water from a nearby station. Officials are at a loss to determine the origin of the fire.

"Gag" Spoiled

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 21—Well, yesterday I had what I thought was a kinder funny "gag." I said the people the Red Cross really should reach who the ... away back in the woods that no one ever heard of, the senate and congress of these United States.

Well, I pick up the paper this morning and I find their name of humor didn't fit with mine. They had added the rest to the senate and congress, and made it so it not only didn't have any humor, but no sense.

What I am trying to get at (if I can get the people to see it as I want it), is to have the Red Cross name for congress just the senate, instead of ... as a "dole" from ... as it is now.

IRENE, DAGUE TO DEATH ROW

Auto Cavalcade Bearing Doomed Pair Accompanied by Heavily Armed Guard.

PINCHOT GETS FINAL PLEAS

Respite Sought for Woman with Execution Set for Monday.

By The Associated Press.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 21— Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague left here today on their last automobile trip, a ride half way across the state of Pennsylvania to Rockview penitentiary where they are to die Monday for the killing of a guardian of the state's highways.

A little cavalcade of automobiles bearing the prisoners and a heavily armed guard left the Lawrence county jail at 11:30 a. m. Sheriff Frank Johnston and his men planned to dash all the way across country to the state's prison in high powered automobiles, a distance by airline of nearly 250 miles. The route the cars were to take was not disclosed.

The roads the doomed prisoners will traverse on their death ride once were patroled by the victim of their banditry, Corporal Brady Paul, member of the state highway patrol.

It was along a highway near here on Dec. 27, 1929, that Paul was shot and killed as he sought the bandits who held up a grocery store at Butler.

Basis of Conviction

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague have admitted they were the bandits and that they engaged in a gun fight with Paul and a fellow officer. Partly by their admission, the state convicted both of them, for the law provides that all persons participating in a robbery in which murder is committed are equally guilty of murder, regardless of who fired the fatal shot.

Mrs. Schroeder came from the jail smiling. Dague was serene. The prisoners were loaded into an automobile in the garage at the rear of the jail while hundreds of curious persons surrounded the courthouse.

Both prisoners were put in one car. With them were the sheriff, two deputies, and a woman, Mary Conti, an attache of the Lawrence county court.

Another car carried other officers, Sheriff Johnston's wife and a nurse.

GASOLINE USED TO START FIRE CAUSES DEATH

George Carnes, 36-Year-Old Farmer, Dies in Marion City Hospital.

LOCAL WOMAN'S BROTHER

Neighbor Discovers Body in Orchard Enveloped by Flaming Clothing.

Special to The Star.

NEVADA, O., Feb. 21—Burns sustained when he started a fire with gasoline last night caused the death in Marion City hospital of George Carnes 36, farmer of three miles southwest of here.

Although his body was a solid mass of burns, Carnes remained in a semi-conscious condition until he died in the hospital at 7:15 p. m. He was the brother of Mrs. Delbert Horn of 548 Mound street in Marion.

He was taken to the hospital after Ross Winter, a neighbor, discovered him in an orchard 100 feet from the house. Attracted by his screams, Winter found Carnes' body a mass of flames with nearly all the clothing burned off.

Took Gas from Auto

Carnes was alone in the house when he attempted to start the fire after hauling water from a neighboring farm for stock. The exact details of the accident could not be learned. It is believed that he drained some gasoline from his automobile into a five-gallon can. He spilled part of it on his coat, neighbors said, and when he attempted to light the fire a puff of flames ignited his clothing and threw gasoline onto the floor.

Carnes ran from the house toward a water tank near the barn, blinded by the flames and pain he lost his sense of direction and entered a chicken coop. From there he ran toward the orchard where he was discovered a short time later.

Neighbors said there was no explosion. The can of gasoline remained intact as did the stove. When he dropped the gasoline container part of its contents spilled on the floor of the house. For a time the house was threatened by the resulting flames but they were extinguished by neighbors before any great damage was done.

Fourth February Fire Victim

Carnes is the fourth person in Wyandot, Hardin and Marion counties to die as a result of burns this month. Mrs. Anna F. Powell, 66, of Mortal was fatally burned in an explosion when she attempted to start a fire with kerosene. George Reigle, 81, of Forest died in a Kenton hospital from burns sustained when he knocked over a lamp while sleeping in a chair at his home. The body of Adam Eberhart, 72, was discovered in his burning house eight miles southeast of Marion.

The widow and three daughters, Helen, 6, Iacah, 12, and Doris, 7, survive. In addition to Mrs. Born of Marion, another sister and a brother survive. They are E. A. Carnes of Sherman, O. and Mrs. C. W. Scott of Portland, O. His parents are dead. He was born in Crawford county May 1, 1895.

Funeral services will be held in the home Sunday at 2 p. m. Burial will be made in the Nevada cemetery.

The body has been taken from the Marion hospital to the Bender & Lucas funeral home here. He was taken to the hospital in a Bender & Lucas ambulance.

HIGH OFFICIALS TO HONOR WASHINGTON

Hoover To Join in Anniversary Tribute; Congress To Hold Service Monday.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 — Because Washington's birthday anniversary comes on Sunday this year, observance of the day by the nation's officials will depart from the usual pattern.

President Hoover, who last year appeared with official pomp at the spectacular celebration of Alexandria, Va., "home-town" of the first President, will be permitted to celebrate according to his inclination.

His inclination likely will lead him right back to Alexandria—to worship quietly in Washington's pew at Christ's church.

Members of congress, too, will experience an interspected swerve from Washington's birthday tradition. For years, two numerous to count, Washington's farewell address has been read on his birthday. This year, with the observance scheduled for Monday, the 23rd, Representative Beck of Pennsylvania will deliver an address on Washington.

O. W. U. Professors To Appear in Show

Special to The Star.

DELAWARE, O., Feb. 21—Forgetting their wonted dignity, Ohio Wesleyan university professors will play before the footlights with students and townspeople, when "The Fashion-Plate Revue," a minstrel show, is presented here next Thursday and Friday nights.

The show, which is under the auspices of the Delaware Kiwanis club, is for the benefit of charity.

It seems absurd to copyright a bunch of epigrams. They've all been said before.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Feb. 22

SUNDAY'S horoscope favors all spiritual, mystical and unusual things, but promises little of success or satisfaction in other directions. Dealings with secret bodies, occult or spiritual investigation may be fruitful, and poetry, music or drama of a novel nature may be stimulated.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which things of intrigue, strategy or expediency may prosper rather than matters of direct action. Negotiations with close corporations, mergers or secret societies are well aspected; and contracts made with subtlety may be successful. A year of singular adventures or experiences may be expected. A child born on this day may be clever and resourceful in a subtle or strategic sort of way. It may be endowed with peculiar or curious habits or talents.

For Monday, Feb. 23

MONDAY'S astrological chart shows an eventful and intriguing trend of affairs, with many outstanding and interesting occurrences or adventures. There may be an unlooked for change in connection with new undertakings or large positions involving close corporations, secret bodies or avenues of diplomacy. These should prosper financially and bring advancement under a friendly Jupiter and employment should likewise offer promotion or preferment.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a very interesting and eventful year, with many subtle or secret angles assisting to progress and prosperity. Employment or new undertakings may entail sudden change and be financially gratifying. A child born on this day may be talented and efficent, but may find that tactful, diplomatic and strategic methods may bring it unusual or peculiar successes and affiliations in life.

DOROTHY PETERSON TO PLAY AT OHIO IN "MOTHER'S CRY"

Famous Best Selling Novel Gone Talkie To Show Here.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

HELEN GRACE CARLISLE'S famous best-seller, "Mothers Cry," has been transferred to the screen with Dorothy Peterson, whose versatility has been seen in drama and other classic dramas as well as Broadway successes like "Cobra," "The Fall Guy," "God Loves Us" and "Subway Express," as the mother.

The picture opens Sunday at the Ohio to play through Wednesday. Critics have praised Miss Peterson's work in this picture. Helen Chandler, David Manners, Sidney Blackmer, Edward Woods and Evelyn Knapp provide the worries which make mothers cry.

Louis Bromfield, author, said of the book, 'A simple, moving story of one of those humble lives of which we catch a glimpse only now and then in the tabloid newspapers."

"THE PAINTED DESERT" COMING MARION

The Marion is offering for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "The Painted Desert" with William (screen) Boyd, Helen Twelvetrees and William Farnum in the leading roles.

Dinosaur Canyon, situated in the almost inaccessible region of the Hopi Indian reservation in Arizona and revealed to the white man for the first time in 1929, was photographed for the first time for this picture.

The canyon for ages had been a secret rendervous for Hopi Indians, unknown to U. S. Indian agents or the white pioneers of the territory until a keeper of the Cameron Trading post was told of it by an Indian whose confidence he had gained.

The picture was made from an original story by Howard Higgin and Tom Buckingham. Higgin directed the picture.

BLACK, WHITE, RED ON PALACE BILL

Black, white and red will mingle on the Palace stage Sunday and Monday. The big flash on the program will be the Indian revue of six men and women. Trout and Heff, colored comedians have been billed. Joe Roberts, who has signed recognition as a banjo player, and who has made several recordings of his best numbers will do a single. That is he will have the stage to himself.

Charlie Murray and George Sidney team again in "Caught Cheating." This Irish-Jewish combination has raised a lot of its laughs from catching each other cheating in other pictures, and now they have out and out titled their latest picture "Caught Cheating."

Charlie Murray's face is the only thing about him that's Irish. That was news to us, he's a perfect Irish type, when we learned the other day that he was born in Laurel, Ind., of German and Scotch parents.

"Beau Ideal," Sequel to "Beau Geste," Closes Here Tonight.

BILLED as a sequel to "Beau Geste," the Radio Pictures production of "Beau Ideal" opened last night at the Palace and will be shown again this afternoon and tonight.

The picture, which is produced by Herbert Brepon who also gave the motion picture world the thrilling "Beau Geste" tells what happened to the third of the Geste brothers who joined the French Foreign Legion for service in Morocco.

It will be recalled that in "Beau Geste" two of the brothers were killed during a siege of a desert fort, and that the fate of the third was left somewhat in doubt.

His rescue by a young American, a playmate of his childhood days, makes up the plot of the picture.

Ralph Forbes has the lead as John Geste, while Lester Vail, a newcomer to the screen, is the rescuer. Loretta Young and Irene Rich have minor roles.

An all-barkie comedy, "The Big Dog House," is a feature on the program which also includes a Fox Movietone News and a farewell organ program by Regal Spenser. G. W.

COMEDY, MYSTERY PICTURE AT MARION

Rather s-s-so is the comedy-mystery show, "The Lion and the Lamb" closing at the Marion tonight. Raymond Hatton is the comedy, an American sailor who holds royalty and gangsters in no special regard. Walter Byron the lead, reminds one of Chester Moore with a mustache. Carmel Myers is eye-filling as the gorgeous feminine member of a notorious gang of diamond thieves, the Lambs. Byron takes it upon himself to become the lion of the hour and that's where the fun begins. He is rescued from a predicament by Miss Myers and becomes a member of the Lambs, the slogan of which is "No one can desert the organization and live."

When he falls in love with the girl whose home the gang goes to rob, things are worse for him than ever. He's determined to exterminate the gang. Suffice to say that he does.

The kick we got out of the show was the opening of a new Tim McCoy blood and thunder western serial, "The Indians Are Coming." The way the kids dope out a picture, cheer the hero and get all steamed up over the Indians takes one back a few years to the days when Pearl White was the reigning serial queen and one week to another was a year. Will, Visiting 10 to 12 Towns Daily for Drouth Relief, Finds Time To Write About His Home State

BY WILL ROGERS

ALL I know is just what I see from the air with this Captain Hawkes going 180 miles an hour. I am digging on this little Corona away up in the air. We are in a Navy Curtis "Hell Diver" plane loaned to us by the Assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of air. We thought we did some shows in Texas. But Boy when we got into the old home State of Oklahoma, then they showed us how to lay out some shows. I am trying to keep this little diary. You just about have time to write a few words in here and then we have to land and do a show.

This is Monday, we are coming into Oklahoma from Texas. Its the only day we havent got a bunch of day shows; we only have the opening show at Oklahoma City tonight. We land about ten o'clock, Captain Hawkes goes to the Hotel, and I get the man to drive me by the Capitol building. You see I wanted to see the other Oklahoma show, the Legislature. I dont constitute Oklahoma's sole Comedy element. Then too I had never met our new Governor, "Alfalfa" Bill Murray. My dad had known him. They had served on the Constitutional Convention of Oklahoma about 1906.

Some Sheets!

Papa always said the crowning achievement of that Convention was that they made Hotel Bed Sheets 9 feet long. He used to often say that he dident know why they did it, "as so few of the Eeligates had ever had much contact with sheets." Well he is quite a fellow this Murray. He might be called a little Radical by some. But I think he has got some mighty good ideas. Thats why I doubt if any of them will pass. You got to get something pretty "Nutty" to get by nowadays. We had a good visit. I had lunch with him in his office. He is supposed to bring his lunch in a paper bag. So I dident take him up at once as I never saw the paper bag that could hold all I could eat. But he said he would send out, and he did. He dont eat much besides Onions. Well I love onions, but I like meat too. In fact I believe I like meat better than Onions, so he sent out and got me something to eat. Then they made me go and talk to a joint session of the Legislature. I will have to tell you about that some time. Big House in Oklahoma City that night, got over ten thousand dollars.

Starts Lobbying

Tuesday morning. Here we are in the air again, and early, as we have to be at Norman Oklahoma, the Home of Oklahoma's crack University. Its just a little ways from Oklahoma City. They got a pretty good flying field there. Got a lot of laughs out of the Students and Teachers, for the Governor was just trying to put through a Bill to tax Teachers salaries, and I claimed I was there lobbying for it. Murray also has it in for the amount of farveling expenses spent by College Athletes. He is trying to put through a Bill to compel every team to play all its games at home. Its kinder hazy in my mind yet. But I think he is going to do it just like chess, over the phone. One team grabs the ball and phones back where they caught it and how many yards they made on that play.

This show was at ten o'clock in the morning. Captain Hawkes would do an act too, and the "Revellers" Quartet who only did the night shows they come down there that morning and sang for the University.

Then to Chicasha, Okla. There an old Boy runs the biggest Bank that used to go to school with me in Kemper Military Academy about '98. There is a Girls School there, and we were in their Auditorium. Those Girls sho would giggle when anything did strike em funny. They are a great audience. We flew out of there for Ardmore for our night show. Went out to a mighty fine barbecue at Roy Johnstons house, where we joined all the rest of our troop. The Revellers, and Jimmy Rodgers who was with us then, (the Yodler De Luxe) and Chester Byers, the Roper.

Up early this morning and we are flying to Duncan. Oh Boy we are met here by a band of Cowboys mounted, and we got on horses. Hawkes is on one, he is the only riding Aviator. Wow what a street full of people. All these places the Theaters are full. Here we are back to the field and off for Lawton, thats right by Ft. Sill, the old Military Fort, and quite a historic old place. After the show there today we went out to the Fort and visited the place where they had old Geronimo, the Apache Chief incarcerated. We saw the cell, I afterwards knew him at the World Fair in St. Louis. As old as he was he used to go out with us at the Wild West Show and Roping Contest on Sundays and rope a steer. I guess he was about the best old Fighter that ever roamed that southern Country. Its a pretty place, Ft. Sill is, and so is Lawton.

150 Miles Per Lasy

Now we are off and flying again over the old Ft. and off for Durant for the night. Its a great life this. Talk about playing one nights stands. Some days we play a half dozen. This Hawkes is a sweet flyer, and this Flame is a dandy. We knock off 150 miles an hour right along. This is Thursday morning and we are to be at the Oklahoma A and M at Stillwater at ten. A. M. I had never been there and always wanted to go, as I had a Nephew graduated from there and he has turned out mighty good, and its a great school. They win more prises for fat Cattle than any other Agricultural School in the U. S. There is an animal Man there named Blizzard, and he is a Bear. He showed us all their fine cattle.

Enid. Here she is for the afternoon show. Frank is bringing her in, he is high and dropping and slide slipping her in fast. You cant write when this thing is doing this. Big hall and a big house full. Now we are off for Ponca City, thats a great little City. Thats the place they have a Statue of the "Pioneer Woman." I was there and made a speech at the unveiling of it. That fellow Marlin has done a lot for that town.

Off again this morning early for Shawnee. Big crowd at the field. Here is a niece here to meet me. I drive with her and her husband and Boy to the Theater.

Ada next. Sounds like a Girl. But its a town and a nice one. Now we are off for McAlister. Thats the town where I took my Masonic 33 degrees 22 years ago and havent' been there since. Gee they got a great Masonic Temple there. I played in the big auditorium and its one of the most beautiful places you ever saw.

Now we are off for Muscogee, four shows today. Getting back in my own old Territory now where I know a lot of folks. I used to go to school here at a Girls school. That's a fact. Myself and the Presidents son were the only Boys three. We even roomed in a great big dormitory room with Girls. We were ten years old. I better quit before I get too far into this.

SON BURNED

Kansas Father in Jail on Charge of Brutally Punishing Boy.

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Kas., Feb. 21 — Elmer S. Dorris was in the county jail at Girard, Kas., today accused of having punished his five-year-old son, Jackie, by holding him against a hot stove, causing burns which physicians said might prove fatal.

Robert S. Lemon, county attorney, said charges would be filed immediately. Police said neighbors complained they found the boy in the yard at his home, burned severely from his chest to his knees.

The prisoner refused to discuss the complaint. Officers said they anticipated mob violence in transferring him from the city jail to Girard. The boy's mother died two years ago.

PRESIDENTS WIN FROM BUCYRUS 30-20

Kirkpatrick Defeats Martel 25-15 to Cinch East Half County Cage Title

HARDING RALLIES IN THIRD QUARTER TO TAKE THIRD VICTORY

Ling Tops Scorers with 11 Markers; Talbott Leads Losing Combination.

BY KARL R. McELROY

HARDING'S losing streak got kicked all over the lot last night in Star auditorium when the Red and Black basketeers won their third North Central league game of the season by defeating Bucyrus 30 to 20.

Trailing at the half, the Presidents rallied to take the lead in the third quarter and turned a close game into a rout in the closing period.

Ling led Harding to victory, scoring 11 of the points from five field goals and a free throw. Talbott, warming up in the last half, kept Bucyrus in the race with eight markers from four field goals. Clay located the bucket for three goals.

Coach Bohyer did not start his regular lineup. Vestal and Bush replaced Morgan and Merkel at the start of the game. The latter two got in later. Merkel and Vestal failed to score while Morgan slipped through for two field goals.

Bucyrus, striving for its first league victory, led Harding at the end of the first quarter 8 to 7. At the half the lead had increased to 13 to 11. The Presidents scored six points in the third while Bucyrus was held to one bucket.

The first quarter was close with never more than two points separating the two quintets. Pope opened the scoring with a free throw and Ling placed Harding out in front with a bucket, Ward's basket gave Bucyrus the lead and Bush knotted the count again. Ward and Ling each scored baskets to keep the score even. Seele scored his only basket and Smith tied the count at 7-all with a pair of charity tosses. Seele's free throw placed Bucyrus in front as the period ended.

Bucyrus Leads at Half

Talbott and Lindsey broke even on the scoring as the second period got under way. Bucyrus missed several free throw attempts and Talbott scored another goal. Lindsey took advantage of a free toss and Ling brought Harding within one point of the leaders with his free throw. Miller's free throw ended the half.

Ling tied the count at 13 early in the third period. Miller's goal, Bucyrus' only bucket of the period, placed his team out in front again. The lead did not last long for Ling again located the basket. Smith's bucket ended the period with Harding out in front.

Harding started rolling up the score as soon as the whistle started the fourth period. Ling, Morgan and Clay scored baskets to give Harding a 25 to 15 lead. Morgan scored two and the other two men got one each. Bucyrus located the basket again with Seele getting a free throw and Talbott a goal. Clay and Talbott kept the scoring on an even basis and then the former scored his third bucket of the fray. Bush ended the game with his free throw.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

For Your Information:

THERE is a remote possibility that one of the classiest shortstops in Marion and perhaps some other players will be ruled ineligible for Sunday school baseball for a year due to a technicality in the rules

Forest Lawn is the first Sunday school in the city to organize for the coming baseball season. (They also picked out the position on the class room wall where they expect to nail the league pennant next fall.)

It is reported that Calvary Sunday school will play minus several of its 1930 stars this season. I rather imagine it is one of the usual pre-season bear stories but it doesn't make much difference. They can lose several and still be better than most of the teams in the league.

A few of the managers of Sunday school basketball are said to be quite wrought up over the charges chronicled here recently that a lot of players in the Y-Church league are ineligible. Strangely enough the directors of the league have been unusually silent.

As expected the baseball commission has indicated its intention of putting church baseball on the "up and up" during the coming season.

It is just possible that a few players will have to present different excuses this year in order to be excused from Sunday school attendance and play baseball in the church leagues. (Different from the one given last year by one individual who asked excusal on the ground that he was signed to play pro ball on Sunday in foreign towns.)

There are those who believe Harding will "go to town" when it gets in the district tournament at Delaware despite its poor showing in the N. C. O. league. (A change of pasture perhaps.)

Harding despite the fact that it was in fifth place in a six team circuit preceding the Bucyrus game last night had the fewest number of points scored against it of any team in the league . . . And in case you didn't know it, had scored the fewest points against opposition. Sad, isn't it?

The managers of at least two teams in the Commercial baseball league say they will not put teams in the league next season unless permitted to combine talent with another organization. To counteract this there are said to be several county towns asking for permission to compete in the city circuit.

Columbus Team Leads in Bowling Tournament

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 21 More contenders for bowling honors will swing into action here today in continuation of the Ohio State Bowling Association's annual tournament.

A Columbus team, the Saladins, led by W. Kropp, who toppled 270 pins, took the lead in scoring during the meet last night when they ran up a total of 1109

Leaders, including last night's games, follow:

Five man: Burt's Foundry, Toledo, 3010; Gettrost's No. 1, Columbus, 2928; Mune Alley No. 1, Cleveland, 2887. Doubles: Feldcamp-Beauerels, Cincinnati, 1210; Mergard-Shotwell, Cincinnati, 1212. Singles: W. Glass, Steubenville, 685; Elwret, Toledo, 655; Kilgore, Akron, 650

CINCINNATI QUINTET TO TACKLE Y-INDUS AT SHOVEL TONIGHT

Former University Star Listed in Lineup of Invading Y. M. C. A. Team.

BOASTING a fast moving offense centered around Moskowitz, a former satellite of the University of Cincinnati, the Cincinnati Wildcat basketball team will clash tonight with the Shovel Y-Indus cage club on the Shovel court. Moskowitz is high scorer of the Cincinnati team and a plenty clever court worker.

Among other outstanding players of the downstate squad is Neider who has been playing with the Cincinnatians for the last 11 seasons. He is an important cog in the attack of the Wildcat organization. During the time Neider has been playing the Cincinnati quintet has won the International championship five times and have won the state Class A title six times in eight attempts.

An unusually lengthy program has been arranged to precede the Y-Indus-Cincinnati fray tonight. The First Reformed Sunday school girls' team will play the Marion Business College lassies at 6:30 and the Marion Y. M. C. A. volleyball team will clash with the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. an hour later. The Y-Indus battle is booked for 8:30 p. m. The volleyball games promise to be hard fought inasmuch as Marion and Cincinnati boast two of the outstanding teams in the state. Both have been contenders for the state title for the last several years.

It is possible that the Y-Indus will have its full strength available although it is possible that a single first string man will be missing from the lineup. Roush and Gillis at forward, Lockwood at center, Keller and Cram at guards will probably make up the starting lineup.

CAMPBELL TO SHOW IN SEMI-FINAL BOUT

Monday Night Match in Shovel Gym Features Two Local Grapplers.

Another promising young light heavyweight will be seen in action on the championship wrestling card at the Steam Shovel gym next Monday night. He is Joe Campbell, the Buffalo flash, who will meet Dug Marcell of Hoboken in the 30-minute semi-final.

The card for the match which will feature the titular go between Joe Banaski, the present champion, and "Dude" Chick has been completed by promoters.

In addition to the main go and semi-final, two preliminary matches have been booked. In the opener Roy Rhinehart of Mt. Gilead will wrestle Dick Griffin of Marion. In the other eye-opener Tom Temple of Marion meets Bill Hassan of Columbus.

Campbell wrestled Banaski in Columbus recently for the championship. He also appeared in the semi-final of the last card and Marion fans expect to see and hear quite a bit of him in the future.

With the day of the bout but a short time away, the advance sale of tickets at Markert & Lewis is progressing rapidly and the indications are that there will be a sellout.

THREE TEAMS TIED FOR SECOND PLACE

Waldo Boys Surprised by Claridon, 17-12; Morral Takes Eighth Straight.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

BATTLING through four periods of the most fiercely fought basketball seen on a county court this season Kirkpatrick cagers downed the Martel outfit last night on the Kirkpatrick floor by a 25 to 15 score. The victory clinched the title in the East half of the county for the winners and kept Martel in a deadlock with Waldo for the runner-up position. Waldo was defeated by Claridon on the Claridon court 17 to 15 in an upset.

The Martel girls made it an even break for the visiting school and incidentally hung up the second victory of the season by handing the Kirkpatrick lassies a surprise 14 to 13 defeat. The Kirkpatrick girls had been figured to defeat Martel handily on the basis of former records this season

Martel and Kirkpatrick boys fought their way through the first three periods with honors nearly even. The Kirkpatrick boys managed to maintain a slim margin most of the time but it was never enough to allow any slackening of pace. The score at the half stood 10 to 6 for the eventual winners.

Hill and Hart Star

Hill and Hart of Kirkpatrick performed in a high class form. Both were all over the floor, following the ball with hawklike ability and shooting with almost uncanny accuracy.

The Martel girls, led by Mary Ellen Reed, one of the snappiest forwards playing in the county handed the dope bucket a vigorous boot by beating the Kirkpatrick lassies 14-13. The winners led all the way but Kirkpatrick threatened late in the game to hand Martel its seventh beating of the year. Reed was the whole noise for the winners. She was high scorer with 10 points.

Claridon boys did the unexpected by giving Waldo a 17 to 12 setback. The result of this game helped to bring about a three way deadlock for second place among the teams representing Waldo Martel and Caledonia. This deadlock will be played off sometime next week before the county playoff on Friday.

Morral Wins Again

Morral's rampaging cagers took a double header bill from the Green Camp teams the boys winning 32 to 14 and the girls 26 to 18. The victory for the girls leaves a three way tie for first place among Pleasant, Prospect and Morral.

Prospect teams handed LaRue a two way beating on the Prospect court. The Prospect girls were victors by 30 to 11 and the boys won 43 to 36.

The Claridon girls took their seventh victory of the season last night on the home court defeating Waldo 21 to 17. The victory gives Claridon the championship of the division.

GALION ORANGEMEN END WINNING STREAK OF ASHLAND QUINTET

Hilltoppers Lose 21-14; Shelby Beaten by Mansfield Five 22 to 17.

GALION High school basketeers put an abrupt end to the eight game winning streak of the Ashland Hilltoppers last night on the Ashland court, the Ashlanders taking the short end of a 21 to 14 count. Galion gave the Ashland outfit an oversize dose of its own favorite medicine, namely stalling, freezing the ball for the greater part of the second half Galion jumped into the lead in the first period and never relinquished it. Ashland trailed 9-4 at the end of the first period and lagged behind 12 to 6 at the midgame point. The third period was the only one in which the winning combination was outscored. The Starnmen counted four points in the third frame to one for the Gallonites.

The victory puts Galion back into the running for the championship of the league.

Shelby's disappointing Whippets took another one on the chin last night, losing to the Mansfield Tygers 22 to 17 on the Shelby court.

Shelby took the advantage over Mansfield at the opening of the game, leading the Murphymen 7-4 at the end of the first period and 13 to 8 at the halfway point. Mansfield opened up with a scoring attack in the second half that deadlocked the count before the end of the third frame.

Fisch led the Mansfield attack in the final period, hitting the bucket with consistency and also playing a good game on defense.

Gus Culbertson and Jim Miller led the scoring for the Whippet aggregation, the former with six and the latter with one more. The high class guarding of McMullen and Brandon kept these two scoring aces from collecting many markers.

Central trailed Bucyrus in the first period 8-6 but opened up in the second frame and led the game at the half 15 to 14.

Kid Francis Overturns Dope To Beat Shea

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—Kid Francis, another of those well-known under-dogs, has overturned the dope in Madison Square Garden where short-enders in the betting have won with monotonous regularity in recent months.

The rugged Little Italian, held on the short end of 8 to 5 odds, belted Eddie Shea, clouting Chicago featherweight all over the ring last night and won the unanimous decision of the referee and two judges

Shea, returning to New York after an absence of six years and in the role of foremost contender for Bat Battalino's 126-pound crown, never could fathom Francis' unceasing attack, won only three of the rounds, reeled under the kid's body attack in the eighth and tenth rounds and was completely exhausted by the time the final gong sounded.

STAR INDIAN HURLER ACCEPTS TERMS OF TRIBE MANAGEMENT

Baseball Teams Continue Trek Toward Southern Training Camps.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 21.— The Cleveland Indians will send their advance guard into the southland tonight rejoicing over the capitulation of Wesley Ferrell, ace of the pitching staff, who had been a holdout for six weeks.

Ferrell telegraphed General Manager Billy Evans he would accept the original contract proferred him and would join the batterymen at New Orleans, the Tribe's training grounds, Monday. Terms of the contract were not made public, but Evans said Ferrell had been given a "substantial increase."

Five pitchers and Catcher Luke Sewell will be in the party leaving tonight and by the end of next week the entire tribe is expected to be assembled. Outfielder Earl Averill and second baseman Johnny Hodapp, the last two holdouts, are counted on to sign and the announced retirement of first baseman Eddie Morgan is not regarded seriously.

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 21—The first contingent of the Cincinnati Reds started south today.

Only the battery men will work out in Tampa, Fla., during the coming week, with the remainder of the squad of twenty-seven scheduled to leave next Saturday.

Most of the pitchers and catchers along with Manager Dan Howley already are in Tampa, today's party including only pitchers Frey, Eckert and Wysong, and Catcher Suke forth.

The remainder of the squad has been signed with the exception of Horace Ford, shortstop, "Jersey Joe" Stripp and Charles Dresser, third baseman.

President Sidney Weil has practically given up hope of signing Ford, who was asked to take a substantial cut in salary and function as a utility man.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 — New York's three baseball teams were on their way toward southern training camps today, leaving behind them the mystery of what happened to J. Francis Hogan. The big catcher failed to appear yesterday when the Giants left and his absence gave rise to conflicting reports. Some had it that Hogan was a holdout.

Three Giant players were lost among the newspapermen and coaches who made up the National league party which left yesterday for San Antonio, Tex. Several others were due to join the party at St. Louis today. The Yankees also had three athletes in the party which departed a few hours later for St. Petersburg, Fla. The first robin of the season, Fresco Thompson, left with Coach Otto Miller for Clearwater, Fla.

BULL LEADERS BOOST PRICES

Shares Advance Generally Before Two-Day Halt in Trading on Big Board.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb 21—Bull leaders launched a fresh advance in today's short session of the stock market, after stoutly holding the line against a wave of pre-holiday liquidation.

They appeared determined to give the list a strong tone as trading was halted for a two-day shutdown, to prevent any deterioration of bullish enthusiasm before trading is resumed on Tuesday.

Shares were taken in large blocks and gains of 1 to 3 points were numerous while a few specialties were sent up 5 to more than 10. Utilities were again conspicuous in group strength, but even the rails, after holding back most of the week, were pushed forward. Transactions for the two-hour session totaled about 2,400,000 shares.

Fresh business and trade developments at the end of the week were meagre but further firmness in copper metal prices was a bullish development. Custom smelters are now asking 10½ cents a pound, a gain of a full cent in recent weeks.

Steel mills schedules as reported for the Youngstown area for next week were a little disappointing, showing that operations in the aggregate will remain unchanged at 50 per cent of capacity as a drop by Youngstown sheet will offset balance increases by other mills.

The week-end business surveys were in the main encouraging although conservative brokers point out that the news is inclined at times to follow the trend of the market rather than to foretell it. For a rising market finds a ready share relief the favorable factors in business situation while declining markets commentators seeking explanations stress the gloomy reports.

The weekly Iron Age review points out further gains in steel and motor production together with an appreciable pick-up of building contracts. It says, however, that the industry is facing this year indicated [illegible] chance in wholesale and retail trade, failure of the government railroad freight to show any [illegible] early February.

GRAINS AGAIN SHOW DECLINE

Continued Rainfall in Wheat Belt Causes Further Slump in Values.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO Feb 21 With week end general rain or snow predicted and with some moisture reported overnight in Kansas and Oklahoma grain prices tended downward early today. Better weather in Argentina counted also as a bearish factor. Opening unchanged to ¼ cent off, wheat afterward sagged further. Corn started ½@¾ cent and continued to decline.

World supplies of wheat were announced as having increased 18,320,000 bushels last month compared with 4,216,000 decrease in December and a decrease of 8,370,000 during January 1931. Liverpool reported heavy Russian offerings despite assertions from Berlin that severe cold prevailed almost everywhere in Russia and that procuring of grain was virtually at a standstill. Advices were also current that the Japanese market for American wheat had been upset [illegible] war offers from Russia, Canada and Australia.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat price downturns, notwithstanding diminished primary receipts of corn. Total primary arrivals were 887,000 bushels 1,042,000 a week ago. Chicago had 135 cars compared with 242 on the corresponding day last week. Corn bulls were hard put to talk of larger offerings from other terminal markets and a fairly good export business.

A little improvement of export call for provisions was noted.

BASKETS and BANKBOARDS

BY "PHOG" ALLEN

This is the seventh of a series of basketball columns written by Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas. Allen here tells of the results of tests made to determine whether the game is too strenuous for the participants.

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE, Kas.—For several years an opinion has grown that basketball is entirely too strenuous for the participants.

Dr. James Naismith of the University of Kansas and the "Father of Basketball" took as a working basis for research work into the problem, high school boys competing in a tournament held at the university.

Every boy competing in the tournament underwent a thorough physical examination. After the fourth championship game tests showed that the members of the Wichita high school team, the winners of the state tournament, and later winners of the national championship at Chicago, were in better physical condition than at any time during the tournament.

Of the members of the two teams that played for the championship the test of but one man gave any indication that previous opinions that basketball was too severe on the hearts and kidneys of normal high school boys might be sound.

Basketball seems strenuous to the spectator because the spectator naturally follows the ball, which is the focus of activity.

HOWEVER, some years ago, Dr. J. H. McCurdy of Springfield college, Springfield, Mass., conducted a similar test upon team members at that college and found that 87 per cent of the players showed traces of heart and kidney strain.

Perhaps the difference in the results of the two tests was due to the differences in the ages of the two groups of players. The wear and tear on the older physical machines was too severe

ANOTHER interesting test was made on four high school teams, which were entered in a league tournament, to ascertain the actual number of minutes the average high school basketball player was in motion during an entire game.

A separate watch was kept on each of the 20 players in the games. Whenever a player stopped, the watch stopped, and count was resumed again when the player resumed activity.

The results of the investigation were as follows:

1. Average time elapsed for one 10 minute period of play- 13 minutes, 8 seconds.

2. Shortest time of activity for any one player—3 minutes, 32 seconds.

3. Longest time of activity for any one player—7 minutes, 21 seconds.

4. Average time of activity for each player—5 minutes, 28 seconds

5. Percentage of average activity of each player to the entire playing time—39.6 per cent.

Such studies as these stimulate further research studies and settle many, moot points of argument.

MENTAL Stance: It is possible to acquire a favorable frame of mind or a mental stance by the kind of practice that helps a man to acquire correct body stance.

It is good pedagogy to assume that the very best skill and a consistent high level of performance can not be attained unless the right kind of mental stance has been acquired.

Investigators are finding that the reaction of forwards is faster than that of guards. Perhaps we can go back to primitive man for this explanation: The pursued must of necessity have quicker reaction time than the pursuer

The visual, auditory and tactile reactions must be thoroughly studied in our athletes, to find for them their highest and best possibilities.

Truly, athletics are taking on a more scientific aspect and are now an integral part of the educational scheme of our nation.

"Jack of All Trades" Has One Stunner After Another On Job As Repairman

Fogleson Shop Fixes Everything from Sausage Grinder to Automatic Revolver.

BY ROBERT BYRD
Marion Star Staff Writer

MUCH like a child running to its mother with a broken toy with a cry of "fix it," Marionites for more than 40 years have turned to the F. D. Fogleson repair shop in the rear of 130 South Main street when anything around the house or shop gets out of kelter.

It is difficult to imagine the conglomeration of articles Fogleson has been asked to fix. Asked to name some of the things he had repaired, Fogleson replied, "I can't think of anything we haven't at some time or other been called upon to repair."

Jack of All Trades

If there is anywhere a need for the ability of a "jack of all trades" it is in Fogleson's position. There is no academy or school of training capable of preparing a man for his work. Daily his ability is challenged by a job entirely different from anything he has formerly done. Often he is obliged to make tools for a special job.

Many interesting situations find their way into the lives of a repairman, Fogleson and his father, who died three years ago, found. Some of these are recalled by Fogleson.

One night when his father was about to close shop, a traveling man asked him to go to a local hotel and open a locked trunk. The key had been lost. Fogleson obliged and after considerable time succeeded in opening the trunk and making a duplicate key.

When the job was finished Fogleson set the charge at 50 cents. The traveling man declared this was exorbitant and protested, refusing to pay more than 5 cents.

"All right, you don't have to buy the key," Fogleson retorted, slamming the trunk lid shut and locking it. The customer reconsidered, but Fogleson then refused to sell him the key at any price.

Gun is "Gift"

Another interesting incident occurred when a customer brought in a shotgun for repairs. When the job was done, he, like the traveling man, protested against the charge. "You can keep the gun before I'll pay that price," the customer said.

"It's my gun then, is it?" Fogleson asked, and when the man nodded, the repairman smashed the gun over an anvil so much as to say "That for you." The man paled and walked out.

A few days later, Fogleson learned the gun was not the property of the customer, but belonged to another man who had loaned it providing the borrower have it repaired. The smashed gun was again repaired, and was given to the owner who paid two repair bills.

Arguments about repair bills are common. Dozens of times Fogleson has been called out to make repairs, only to find the persons who called have found that nothing was broken after all. This provides an unusually good scene for an argument, the customer declaring he has received no benefit, and Fogleson claiming the trips can't be made for nothing.

The night before last Thanksgiving found Fogleson trying to overcome two stubborn Yale locks to gain entrance to the case containing surgical tools at City hospital. The key had been lost. Rough tactics with the locks were out of the question, as many of the valuable tools were on glass shelves. After an evening of tedious work, the case was opened.

Here's Queer One

Probably at the top of the list of queer repairs made by Fogleson was the discovery of a mouse nest in the joint of an artificial limb believed by its owner to be out of order. When the nest was removed the joint worked perfectly. The limb had been stored away in a closet, and refused to work when its owner put it into emergency use.

An instance where an automatic pistol fixed itself is recalled by Harry W. Elbling who has worked with Fogleson in the shop 25 years. The gun was brought in the shop, but an estimated price on the cost of repairs discouraged the owner. Suddenly the firearm dropped from his hand, falling heavily on the floor. A test made after the fall found it in perfect working condition.

Repair work on firearms is a dangerous business, Fogleson has discovered. A finger badly cut by a bullet helped teach him this lesson.

The accident occurred after Fogleson had repaired a revolver, laying it on the shelf. While he was out of the shop the owner called, paid the bill and took his gun. Then a policeman brought in a loaded revolver exactly like the one Fogleson had fixed. When Fogleson picked up the revolver to give it what he thought was the final test to see if the action would work, he nearly shot off one finger.

An example of the wide variety of articles Fogleson reconditions is shown in a repair he recently made on old candlestick molds. They were purchased as antiques and brought to Fogleson to be straightened and polished up.

Learn About People

"We learn much about human nature, and soon 'get the number' of many persons we do business with," Fogleson said. On numerous occasions, customers bring borrowed articles in for repairs. Fearing an expensive repair bill, they ask that the article be fixed "just good enough to hold until I take it back."

Fogleson recently helped a local bakery live up to an advertisement. A bread cutting machine had been advertised, but when installed for service the machine balked. Fogleson worked on the machine a day and the cutter went into service on the day advertised.

"There's something unusual happening every day," Fogleson said. "We are not troubled with monotony," he said, pointing to a pile containing a sausage grinder, a surgeon's hammer, automobile parts and a miscellaneous lot of other articles.

The shop was started at its present location in 1882 by Schiller Fogleson, father of its present owner. He operated it until the shop was sold when he became postmaster during the Harrison administration. After five years in the post office, he repurchased the shop and it has been in operation ever since.

F. D. Fogleson has been in charge of the shop for the last 30 years.

Her premises as told over the radio, are that many a wife has won promotion for her husband because she won a place for herself in the esteem of her husband's employers or influential friends.

BY REV. EDNA BEOUGHER HUGHES

Evangelist at Prospect Street M. E. Church

Text:—"Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing." Matt. 5:26.

EVERY unsaved person has a threefold obligation.

1. Obligation to self.

First of all is your debt to yourself. You owe yourself a clear conscience; a clean character; and a spotless record. Day by day your record is being written and will be read by succeeding generations. You will be remembered after death by the life you have lived and the things you have done. Of Stephen, it was said, "that he was a good man, full of faith and the Holy Ghost." What a wonderful biography! The memory of Godly parents will never cease to bless the children. And this every parent owes to himself after he is gone. For "Being dead, yet we speak"

2. Obligation to loved ones.

You have an obligation to loved ones. Your children, wife, mother, father, and your friends. You may provide well, and be kind in your home, educate your children and all that; but you have another obligation, which can only be paid, as you kneel in penitence at the cross of Christ.

Tears streamed down a man's face as he sat in a service and heard these closing lines of a poem:—

"I reckon I'm a better man
Than what I used to be,
Because I have this chap at home
Who thinks the world of me."

He said, "I felt my little lad's hands behind me, and he pushed me to Christ.

Oh, men and women, let the thought of your loved ones drive you to Calvary

3. Obligation to God.

"In God we live and move and have our being" He has given you existence, health and strength; for all these gifts you are a debtor.

Your moral and spiritual debt is greater. Spiritually you are a bankrupt. "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. We read in Ezekiel 18 the law concerning sin. "The soul that sinneth it shall die." We never can escape the penalty But God's mercy provides for His justice. Christ died for our sins.

Jesus paid it all. All to Him I owe. It is up to the sinner to accept the one who took his place and died in his stead

TO MEET YOUNG PEOPLE HERE

Presbyterian Worker Plans Conference with Members Here.

Miss Janet Stone of Philadelphia, associate director of Intermediate Senior work of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, will be the guest of First Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon and night at a young people's conference.

Miss Mabel Wheatley, secretary of young people's work at First church has arranged the conference as an opportunity for the young people to meet and talk with Miss Stone on problems of program planning.

One hundred and fifty young people from First, Forest Lawn, Lee street and the LaRue societies are expected to attend the meeting. Miss Stone will hold a conference with the leaders at 4:30 p. m. and at 6 p. m. a banquet will be served. A round-table discussion of the problems of the societies will follow.

Miss Stone will be accompanied by Rev. James A. Verburg, Ohio Synod's field representative for Christian Education who is in charge of the series of conferences arranged for Ohio churches. On Wednesday night a meeting will be held in Mansfield.

Dr. William Chalmers Covert of the Philadelphia headquarters in speaking of these conferences said: "Pagan Tendencies of the present day give the church much the same problem as during Christ's ministry on earth. We must present to our youth, so beset with intellectual and spiritual perils, a fresh, virile, pentecostal message of Christ, in language the present generation can understand, with a moral passion it cannot resist."

NATION QUIET AFTER REVOLT IS CHECKED

Peru Government Quells Military Uprising; One American Among Dead.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 21—The revolutionary government headed by Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro emerged triumphant today from a maze of intrigue and reactionary plotting which culminated yesterday in an unsuccessful military uprising at Lima and Callao.

Sixty-one persons, among them one American and 20 rebels, were killed. Many others including the heads of the movement, General Pablo Martinez, Colonel Zorilla Lujan, and Captain Arenas, chief of the Callao police, were taken prisoners. Col. Sanchez said severe military penalties would be inflicted.

Both Lima and Callao were calm today. Traffic and motion picture shows resumed last night despite a state of siege.

The revolt began when members of an artillery detachment commanded by General Martinez came in from Magdalena, a superb, and attacked the presidential palace.

President Sanchez Cerro mobilized his forces, totaling about 1,200 and began a machine assault on the fort, which the revolutionists had taken from the top of a nearby building. When airplanes hovered over the rebel stronghold as if they were going to drop bombs, a white flag was raised.

The American killed was Reginald A. Skidmore of Bethlehem, Pa., assistant marine superintendent of the Grace steamship lines. He was eating lunch when a stray bullet struck him.

believes he has, which may be exercised without affecting anyone else."

Whether Attorney General Mitchell and other cabinet officers who appeared before the committee indorse Woodcock's solution of the problem, was not disclosed.

Four Recommendations

Four specific recommendations were made by Col. Woodcock, aimed at the promotion of better cooperation between the states and the federal government:

1. A law making it an offense for anyone to withhold knowledge of a felony.

2. A financial subsidy to the states from the federal government "conditioned upon their bringing their law enforcement agencies to a certain standard."

3. A direct payment to state officials for each successful prosecution.

4. A special staff in each enforcement district to make investigations and to lay evidence before the local prosecuting agencies.

Some of these suggestions, if carried out, he admitted, might be conducive to abuses. Apparently the commission was of the same opinion, for it incorporated none of them in its report.

Col. Woodcock's suggestions to make home-brewing legally respectable had the indorsement of Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, and now general counsel for the California vineyardists who are engaged in a national campaign of selling grape concentrate which, if left alone, nature turns into wine in the home.

The senate probably will do nothing with the report except to read it at its individual leisure, and extract from it such evidence as it desires to bolster individual arguments for and against prohibition. Both the wets and the drys can find plenty in it to support their positions.

AWAIT VETO

Overriding of President Unlikely, Advocates of Bill Believe.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—President Hoover today began planning his veto message on the veterans' loan bill while administration leaders on Capitol Hill started a forlorn search for voters to sustain it.

Although the measure will not be returned to congress until next Wednesday or Thursday, Republican chieftains saw scant chance of boosting to the required number for sustaining the veto the meager band of opponents.

Rumors spread through the capitol that the President in his veto message might assert that if the legislation, allowing World war veterans to borrow half the face value of their compensation certificates, were enacted over the veto he would be forced to call an extra session this spring to provide funds.

battle to escape the electric chair, has deserted her.

The 22-year-old slayer of Highway Patrolman Paul broke down last night and wept hysterically.

Shortly after being notified that Governor Pinchot again had announced he was unable to stay her execution, the West Virginia mountain girl summoned a clergyman, was baptized, then shrieking, threw herself on her cot.

Dague, former Wheeling salesman and Sunday school teacher, was said by jail attaches to have completed writing a "statement" to be issued after arrival of the couple at the Rockview penitentiary, near Bellefonte.

Meanwhile, at the penitentiary, everything was in readiness for the executions. The couple will occupy cells close to the door of the chair room. The cells are separated by a steel wall and the doomed pair will be unable to converse with each other. Mrs. Schroeder will occupy the cell nearest the door, indicating she will be the first to meet death.

Joseph Crawford, aged father of the woman, plans to follow his daughter to Bellefonte and to say his final farewell there tomorrow.

PINCHOT GETS APPEAL

Irene's Execution Would Be "Eternal Disgrace," Message Says.

By The Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 21—Another appeal for a respite for Mrs. Irene Schroeder, 22, condemned to die in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary Monday morning for the slaying of Corporal Brady Paul, on Dec. 27, 1929, was received today by Governor Pinchot.

The appeal was in the form of a telegram from Judah P. Benjamin, New York City, who was chairman of the Ruth Snyder clemency committee.

He asked the governor to grant a respite so that he could have time to study the case and prepare a defense to present to the state board of pardons in the hope of having the woman's sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

"Should this execution be carried out," the telegram said, "it will be an eternal disgrace to the state for the legal murder of the youngest mother condemned to such an untimely end. It will cast an indelible stain on the fair escutcheon of the cradle of American liberty."

While Governor Pinchot made no comment on the latest request for a respite, it was indicated at the governor's office that he would not accede to Benjamin's request.

Yesterday the governor denied a similar request from Percy Allen Rose, Johnstown attorney who pleaded the case of Mrs. Schroeder last fall before the supreme court. Rose asked for a respite so that he could go to Fort Worth, Texas, in an effort to find the revolver he says Irene carried in the shooting affray in which Paul was killed. This revolver, Rose told the governor in his letter, was disposed of in a pawnshop in that city by Mrs. Schroeder.

SUIT DISMISSED

Damage suits brought by Arizona M. Duffey and Carl E. Duffey, her husband, against the Hocking Valley railroad today were dismissed in common pleas court after a settlement had been made by the defendant.

The train came to a sudden stop between Marion and Upper Sandusky, she claimed in her petition, and caused her to be thrown to the floor of the coach in which she was riding.

Her husband brought suit for $7,500 for the alleged loss of his wife's services since the alleged accident.

The plaintiffs were represented by Attorney Carl Gugler of Galion and Attorney Hoke Donithen of Marion.

ANNUAL MANEUVERS OF NAVY COMPLETED

"Blue" Fleet Successful in Theoretical Defense of Panama Canal.

By Commander T. S. Wilkinson
By The Associated Press.

U. S. S. ARKANSAS, Feb. 21—The navy's annual major war game is concluded and the "Blue" fleet is returning to Panama after a determined and successful defense of the Panama canal and the supposedly completed Nicaraguan canal. Its aircraft have demonstrated splendid capabilities, both for search and for attack.

Wideflung aerial and surface searches located far at sea the advancing "Black" fleet in two main detachments, one descending upon the Nicaraguan coast, near the canal, and the second aiming for the coast of the Republic of Panama westward of the Panama canal.

The Blue forces concentrated after discovery of the enemy and attacked both detachments in force by aircraft and surface vessels on Thursday and so crippled the "Black" fleet that a successful attack upon the canals was no longer possible.

U. S. S. LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21—The long slim cigar shaped Los Angeles, theoretically was a mass of twisted, burned metal at the bottom of the Gulf of Panama, 300 miles southwest of Balboa, today. But actually she rested easily at her mooring mast on the U. S. S. Patoka.

The "disaster" occurred at 1:53 p. m. yesterday. Eleven scouting planes and a bomber of the attacking "Black" Pacific fleet zoomed down from out of some clouds and the umpire aboard the dirigible decided they had succeeded in destroying it.

David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy, said the Los Angeles had conclusively established the necessity for continued development of lighter than air craft.

MARION AT LEGAL BOND LIMITATION

pect, Silver, Scranton, Patterson, Davids and Commercial streets by paving and sewer work. Another $60,184.80 represented improvements at the parks, the hospital, the purchase of an X-ray machine at City hospital, a kitchen and dining room at No. 3 fire department, and the purchase of two garbage trailers. The remainder of the total represents bonds for the retirement of notes issued during the preceding year for the improvement of East Center street, Homer street, Pennsylvania avenue, Brightwood and Durfee drives, and an Elm Heights sewer.

The general bonded debt should not be confused with special assessments which, although a part of the sinking fund and what is known as the city debt, are assessments against properties in the city for paving, sewer, and sidewalk work. They are not a city liability.

Some Not Included

Two sizeable items in the total general debt, which are not taken into consideration in the figure which is limited by law, are special bonds for the hospital and sewage disposal plant. Created by a public vote, these bonds are outside the legal limitations.

The sinking fund should, if tax collections this year reach estimated figures, retire approximately $90,000 of the city's debt besides paying interest charge for the year, officials say.

Preparations are now being made to sell bond issues totalling $60,184.80 on Feb. 25. These were authorized last year, and are for the hospital X-ray, park improvements, a building at No. 3 fire house, and for garbage trailers. Since they were considered as notes in the city's present total outstanding debt their sale will not be an added liability.

Following a general cleanup of outstanding note issues by the sale of bonds last year, the city is well up to date in its bonds. After the bond sale Feb. 25 the only outstanding note issues not covered by bonds will be $80,040.07 for the improvement of Main, Prospect, Silver, Commercial, Patterson and Davids streets and Scranton avenue last year, and issues totalling $5,000 for an automobile for the city health nurse, and for park improvements. Both of these items are included in the present total of the city's outstanding debt.

Alfonso Holds His Throne.

Another Spanish crisis has passed into history, and Alfonso still holds the throne of Spain. The political turmoil which led to and succeeded the resignation of the Berenguer cabinet came to an end with the formation of the Aznar ministry, and Spain, for the time-being at least, is calm. How long the country will enjoy tranquility is another matter. If the past may be taken as prophetic of the future, disorders may break out in the Spanish hotbeds of communism at any time just as they have at intervals during the last two decades. Revolution may come tomorrow, or next month, or next year, and there is always the possibility that it may prove successful, but Alfonso is in a far stroner position today than he was ten days ago for the reason that the members of the new ministry are persona grata with the people of Spain, whereas the Berenguer cabinet lacked popularity.

The latest threat against the Spanish throne was overcome very much as all who have followed the history of Spain for the last twenty or thirty years anticipated, and for the reasons set out in these columns a week ago. Alfonso retains his throne, not alone because of the support of the Monarchists of the Right, the Liberals, the Conservatives and the Catalan Independents, not wholly because of the loyalty of the army and navy, but also because the Spanish people of today are largely wedded to monarchial rule and have great respect, admiration and esteem for their king, all of which he won for himself by his personal courage and bravery. The Spanish people, as a class, do not care to give up that which they have tried and with which they are generally satisfied for something of which they know not. This feeling of the people of Spain might not preserve his throne to their king without the support and backing of the leaders of the parties represented in the new ministry and the support of the country's armed forces, but in their hearts, no matter what the future may bring to him, the great mass of the people of Spain will honor and esteem their king and wish him well.

Bill To Revive Indian Claims Vetoed.

President Hoover's action in vetoing the bill which would have given the court of claims authority to revive the claims of the Choctaw and Chicasaw Indians relating to 5,224,346 acres of land relinquished under treaty by those tribes seventy-five years ago, will, we believe, be very generally commended throughout the country. In vetoing the bill, the President declared that it would "create a lawful aspect to a claim which has no legal standing."

The leased district lands of which the 5,224,346 acres are part consist of approximately 7,000,000 acres in Oklahoma. By treaty, back in 1855, the United States paid the Choctaws $600,000 and the Chickasaws $200,000 for the lease of this land to the United States in perpetuity. Eleven years later, the Choctaws and the Chickasaws ceded the leased portion to the United States for an additional payment of $300,000, "thereby parting," as the President says, "with all right of any kind in that land." In 1891, congress appropriated $2,991,450 to pay the Choctaws and the Chickasaws for approximately 2,293,000 acres of the leased district land granted by congress to the Cheyennes and the Arapahoes. That this appropriation was not vetoed by President Harrison was due, so he said at the time, to the fact that to do so would have disastrous consequences as it would defeat the entire appropriation bill of which it was an item.

Realizing that payment by the government for land it already owned would create a dangerous precedent, congress in December of the following year, 1892, passed a resolution carrying the following provision:

"Provided, however, that neither the passage of the original act of appropriation to pay the Choctaw tribes of Indians for their interest in the lands of the Cheyenne and Araphoe reservation, dated March 3, 1891, nor of this resolution shall be held in any way to commit the government to the payment of any further sum to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians for any alleged interest in the remainder of the lands situated in what is commonly known and called the leased district."

Something like forty years having passed and some of the lands having increased many times in value, a new claim was set out for payment at the rate of $1.25 an acre for the 5,224,346 acres—the same acreage as the United States had leased in perpetuity and subsequently bought and twice paid for in full. In other words, a claim for $6,530,467 was set up

Possibly realizing that the present is a very generous congress, and especially so at this time, the passage of the bill to revive the Indian claims was pressed and it went through congress with the resultant veto by the President.

From Truro, Nova Scotia, comes word that the United States coast guard has made it so hot for the Nova Scotian rum fleet and caused the risk of life and property to become so great that the fleet is tied up in the harbor there. Louis Wolheim.

The contribution that Louis Wolheim, character actor, made to dramatic art in America is a notable one. His death deprives the stage and the movies of a well-known and popular figure.

Mr. Wolheim's fortune was his face, disfigured by a broken nose received while playing halfback for Cornell university in 1904. Following his graduation from that institution he became instructor in mathematics at Cornell preparatory school, where he taught for six years. His dramatic ability enabled him to make advantage of his disfiguration in such outstanding roles as Captain Flagg in "What Price Glory," Stanislaus Katczinsky in "All Quiet on the Western Front," and the prize fighter in "Little Old New York." He also had parts in "Sorrell and Son," "Sherlock Holmes," "The Jest," "The Awakening," "Condemned," and "Two Arabian Knights."

It is fitting that Mr. Wolheim, who played many villainous roles, should be remembered by many thousands of theatergoers for his exceptional work in "All Quiet on the Western Front," which he helped make one of the best pictures of 1930 by his characterization of a German private. As the hard, but kind-hearted, "Kat," he approximated the paradox of his real self—an intelligent, kindly man, whose appearance belied his sterling quality. He did a great deal to give the world a more understanding appreciation of good acting.

At the recent public auction over in Germany, there wasn't a single bid for the gain throne of the Hohenzollerns. If there is any one over here with a hankering for a fancy throne, somewhat aged but still in good repair, now is the psychological time to put in a bid and reap the advantage of the bear market.

From Paris comes the news that Mrs. Charles A. Levine has arrived there to take up residence looking to the securing of a divorce. It is gravely to be feared that that little transatlantic jaunt didn't do Charlie any good. It can hardly be said that he's the sanie fellow since he acquired the notion that he's an aviator.

From Columbus we learn that $20,000,000 must be sliced off the state budget to make it balance and that state employes may have to stand pay cuts with lean years ahead. Isn't it a downright shame that the office-holding patriots have to face such a situation right on the heels of a "glorious victory?"

Charlie Chaplin left the Mauretania at Plymouth that there might be no division of the warm welcome which the citizens of Southampton had arranged for his fellow-traveler, Captain Malcolm Campbell, the automobile speed king. It's easy to like a man capable of showing thoughtfulness and consideration like that.

Let's be fair to the senate and give it credit when credit is deserved. We say this by way of preamble to the fact that it has rejected a proposed treaty with Canada which would have permitted a further division of 20,000 cubic feet of water a second from Niagara falls by power companies operating on both sides of the boundary in exchange for improvements to be made by the power companies in the river to preserve its scenery.

CAUSES OF POSTAL DEFICITS.

President Hoover has signed the bill whereby all employes of the postal service, not merely a fortunate minority, as in the past, obtain the forty-four-hour work week. At the same time he announced his intention of requesting congress to create a commission to devise ways and means of reducing the growing postal deficit.

Certainly when a governmental department which should be businesslike in its operations goes annually in the red to the tune of $100,000,000 something ought to be done about the matter.

It is significant that President Hoover is not ready to approve the unsound proposal of the postmaster general that the rates on letter postage be increased. Consequently he favors an investigation rather than application of a superficial so-called remedy which might aggravate the existing situation.

Congress should respond to the president's request by authorizing the suggested commission. The investigation, when made, should be comprehensive. It should consider the substantial cost of the franking privilege, the part played in the department by politics, the indirect subsidies established by the service, as well as the character of the department's methods of bookkeeping and accounting. The postoffice deficit is in part apparent, not real. If all the other departments of the government paid for the handling of their huge mail, as they would if the postoffice were operated by a private agency, the deficit would be much smaller than it is.

The postoffice department needs first of all application throughout its activities of genuine business methods—Chicago News.

INDIANA, THERE SHE WRITES!

Representative Hogg, of Indiana, in a speech before the Indiana club Monday night, told the wandering but not wondering natives that the writers of Hoosier origin are "at the crest of a wave." In his estimation, Booth Tarkington and Gene Stratton-Porter are at the top of their respective classes. James Whitcomb Riley ranks next to Longfellow, while Kin Hubbard could say more in three lines than most writers could in a whole book.

A politician who "points with pride" to the literary activities of his constituency is something of a novelty, but he is not so rare as a certain quality peculiar to Indiana writers. It is their fondness for doing their work on their native soil that makes them so distinctive. They may number a greater throng than the writers of any other state, and the works of the whole group may average higher in literary quality, though three or four states might give them an argument on those points; but their outstanding trait is their home-loving character.

The accepted course of authors who stray from Main Street is to settle in New York or Paris and outdo the sophistication of the sophisticates. Your Indiana writer is far from being a rustic stay-at-home. Indiana travels but for fun, not for work. When she writes, she writes at home.—New York Times.

Dog Bites Should Be Cauterized.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Every year many thousands of persons are bitten by dogs. Not all of these bites are made by mad dogs, of course. Frequently much unnecessary alarm is aroused. However, in view of the seriousness of a bit from a diseased dog, it is well to keep the animal under observation.

The number of bites from dogs has increased within the past few years. But the number of dogs found with rabies has decreased, as have the number of deaths from hydrophobia.

It is of interest to note that in 1926 there were 8,608 dog bites reported in the City of New York, while in 1929 there were 12,279 dog bites. In 1926, 463 dogs were found rabid and in 1929 only 157 were found to be truly mad. In 1927 there were six deaths in the City of New York due to hydrophobia, as against two deaths in 1929.

Rabies or hydrophobia is a disease caused by a germ. The disease in animals is spoken of as "rabies," and in man is known as "hydrophobia." The germ causing this disease is carried in the saliva of the animal. When the animal bites, the skin is torn and the germ enters through the broken skin.

Every dog bite should be immediately placed under the care of a physician. Regardless of whether the dog was mad or not, the wound should be immediately cauterized. This is exceedingly important and often proves to have been the deciding factor in the saving of a life. Prompt cauterization of all bites with fuming nitric acid is the emergency treatment and it should never be overlooked if it is possible to apply it.

Where it is definitely known that the animal was mad, the victim must be sent immediately to a hospital. Here he receives the treatment known as the "Pasteur" treatment. This treatment covers a period of three weeks and is usually successful, particularly if there has not been too long a delay in the cauterization of the wound.

Treatment by "anti-rabitic serum," as it is called, has saved much suffering. It has done much to diminish the number of deaths from the disease.

If all dogs were not allowed to run free, and the animals that are particularly vicious kept muzzled, this disease would probably disappear entirely. This has been practically demonstrated in England where dogs are not allowed to run out unless muzzled.

Space—A Baffling Mystery.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Man is restricted to a very small spacial range. It is a zone, about eight miles through, surrounding the earth and including a tiny layer of the surface of the earth. Within that zone he may walk, run, ride, fly, swim—whether alone or in a vehicle, car, airplane, dirigible or submarine.

Although as yet limited in spacial movement to this comparatively small region, man is free in thought; and he may soar in imagination throughout the entire cosmos. He is endlessly curious: and is constantly seeking to learn anything that may be learned of the universe which lies all about him.

Everything seems for the nonce to resolve itself into motion, waves and energy. Although this table at which I write is apparently steady, it is really flying through space, and I along with it, at a dizzy speed.

The light by which I see to write is coming to me at the highest known speed—186,000 miles per second. I turn on the radio, to listen in, as I write; and the sound from the instrument has been transmitted through the ether at precisely that same speed—the speed of light or of radio waves.

Through the ether, do I say? And what is this curious substance? Is it a matter of air or atmosphere or an electrical field? Perhaps we should at least divest our minds of all material ideas in thinking of the ether. And yet there is some intimate—as yet unknown—relationship between matter and ether. Larmon has ingeniously suggested that matter may, after all, be only a local singularity or peculiar structure of the ether.

All about us lies space, the limit of which has never been found. It is natural to assume that space is infinite in extent, that however far we might go in a given direction we should never reach any barrier or stopping place. But do we know this? One of the subsidiary consequences, although not essential to the validity of the theory of relativity, is that space does have a limit, that it is finite in extent. There is, however, no bounds or barriers to it, even in this theory—just as there is no barrier to progress on the surface of a perfect sphere.

Which of the theories shall we choose? Perhaps neither; for now a new theorist, the Abbe Le Maitre, has come forward and advanced the notion that space itself is not stationary, but is expanding—as demonstrated by the excessively high velocities of spiral nebulae far out in the remoter reaches of interstellar space.

A deeper scientific synthesis is on the way. In his notebook, which contained his reflections on nature and her infinity of secrets, Faraday once recorded his suspicion that all the great forces were somehow united—matter, energy, electricity, magnetism, gravitation.

In pursuance of this deep, unitary principle, Einstein is now in this country, informing himself regarding the physical and astrophysical findings of our famous scientists—Millikan, Michelson, Adams and their associates. Perhaps in the near future this mighty merger may be effected, and all life brought into harmony with the mysterious forces of nature.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Sheridan and Maximilian.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

With the death of the widow of Emporer Maximillian, of Mexico, references have been made to the work of two Ohio men regarding a former tense situation between the United States and Mexico, very delicate in many respects. The Civil war had just ended. On May 17, 1865, General Grant issued orders to General Sheridan sending him to the Southwest to have charge of reconstruction work west of the Mississippi. No reference to a Mexican situation appears in the official order, but when Sheridan called on Grant to inquire whether the detail was so important that he could not remain in Washington for that grand review set for the following week, General Grant went into details.

The mission was important, and he must go at once. Then Grant explained the establishment of an Austro-French empire in Mexico was a part of the civil war and must now be given attention. He was to see that the confederates did not rush help to Maximilian. Two corps were placed in Sheridan's command in this work, and he found a difficult task made more so by Mr. Seward, then secretary of state, who was unwilling to invade Mexican territory.

Seward wished to end the Maximillian regime by using diplomacy on Napoleon to have him withdraw his support. Without that support, he felt sure the empire would not long stand. Sheridan says in his memoirs that he found it hard to maintain a hands-off policy along the border. He admits he secretly had ammunition and arms slipped across the river to the supporters of the republic, and tried to impress the supporters of the empire with the imminence of invasion.

He massed forces on the border, nearest the headquarters of the republican army, with the avowed intention of making the empire supporters believe he was about to move over the boundary. Both Sheridan and Grant believed that the establishment of the empire at Mexico at the time was taking advantage of the involvement of the United States in civil war.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Feb. 21—I don't know precisely how he got in, but his card revealed him as a field agent for a new-fangled school of self analysis. Peek into your own mind and see wow, or something like that. In times like this no one can afford to overlook a bet.

By asking questions and charting replies he seemed to think he could not only speed efficiency, put one en rapport with the right people, triple your salary, but perhaps sharpen your skates. He began by asking me how I regarded my own intelligence.

I told him I had practically one of the leading minds out of Gallipolis, Ohio. He put something down and rubbed it out. It looked like cheating. His method was very discerting. Sitting silently a few moments I would pop a query—that's what he was, a query popper—with the speed of a bullet.

"Name some prominent business men" I exclaimed. I called off Batten, Barton, Durstine, Osborne, Black, Starr, Frost and was just about to mention Park and Tilford when he interrupted with: "Never mind. What is the number of your safety deposit box and where is the key?"

I can't even remember how old I am except it is sufficient. All I could do was shake my head. He gave me a quizzical look and wrote down something. From where I sat it looked like—"Nuts." Then he got up, walked over and a wall light and turned it off.

By this time I got my feet clear of my desk. A guy changing his mind so suddenly and often might start wrestling any minute. Pacing back and forth with his brow furrowed he snapped: "A. has six marbles. B. has two. Divide by three and multiply the quotient by seventeen."

Now he was playing marbles. And I was only a rope skipper! Just then the phone rang. As I reached for the receiver he cried: "Remember you can shorten phone conversation by a simple yes or no." It was a boast so from a collection service and did I pry him off a skimpy no!

He went in response to a telephone message that he was wanted for a bronchial examination. He supposed, of course, his doctor made the appointment. When they began taking photographs he discovered he was to be smeared bare chested across the country in a cough drop advertisement. He still has red in his eye and a gun on his hip.

These trivial digressions might lead one to believe the analyst just asked a few questions and was off. Not that bird. He was around practically all morning. He told me not to pay attention to him. He would sit around observe and ask an occasional question. He almost forgotten he was there when he suddenly inquired: "Do you lace your shoes criss cross or horizontal?" I replied with a fine one: "Neither. They are laced when I buy them. I merely give them a yank and tie a bow knot." That must have meant something terrible for he put a number of notations on the chart. And all was quiet again. Tick tock. Tick, tock.

Sarajevo, the Quaint.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Most Americans never heard of Sarajevo, Serbia, until fifteen years ago, when Archduke Francis Frederick, of Austria, was assassinated there, plunging the world into war.

But today, Sarajevo is one of the quaintest spots in the Old world. Her Balkan people live in the past, with their age-old customs and traditions, ignoring for the most part, the swift onslaught of progress.

One of the most interesting of these old customs is the marriage market which is held each year, on Easter Monday, in the city main square. The ceremony is part of the rites of the Greek Orthodox church.

On the appointed day all the unmarried young men and women journey from their farms and home villages. The youths come in twos, threes or larger groups, but each of the young ladies is accompanied by her parents.

Needless to say they are all attired in their finest clothes. The more wealthy girls are dressed in the lovely old costumes that have been in their families' possession for generations. They are beautifully embroidered and each girl who can afford it wears a chain of gold coins in her hair or on her belt.

The clothes of the hopeful bridegrooms are also heavily embroidered and they wear colorful girdles. Arriving early in the morning the youths and girls stroll up and down the square, very seldom mingling with members of the other sex.

After the first few hours their natural shyness wears off, however, and meeting in the center of the square groups of eight or ten couples begin to dance. Music is provided by shepherds' fifes or pipes.

After awhile acquaintances are struck up between the participants, although most of them have already made up their minds as to their future life-partners.

In the afternoon the groups break up and couples are seen strolling together arm in arm. This is equivalent to an engagement announcement. The marriage market is over.

KENTON, Feb. 21 The state highway program calling for a 1931 expenditure of $3,[illegible]00 in division 1 and submitted to the state highway department this week by Charles A. Ash of Lima, engineer in charge of the division, will employ approximately $245,000 for Hardin county, it was stated.

Mayor M. J. Hosey and Aids Study Local Garbage Service System.

City officials yesterday afternoon were hosts to Mayor M. J. Hosey and other city officials of Ft. Wayne, Ind. David Erwin, service director, and John C. Terro, member of the board of public works, accompanied Mayor Hosey in his visit to Marion.

The visiting officials were especially interested in the garbage and rubbish collection service given Marionites by the city. The visit was made largely to learn the details of operating the local department.

Where the local garbage department is practically a self-supporting institution, charging only $1.80 a quarter to customers of the service, the city of Ft. Wayne pays out $50,000 a year to a private firm to collect only garbage obliging residents of the city to employ private individuals to haul ashes and rubbish, the visitors said.

The visitors were also interested in the sewage disposal plant of Marion, considered a model plant. Ft. Wayne, a city of 115,000 persons has been considering the erection of a new sewage plant several years, Mayor Hosey said.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL IS GIVEN TO SENATE

Quick Favorable Action Likely; Response of President Remains Uncertain.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 Destined soon for the White House and an uncertain fate the Muscle Shoals legislation approved by the house came today before a responsive senate.

Quick and favorable action was expected by Senator Norris. The White House was silent as to its reception by President Hoover but administration men predicted it would not get his approval. No matter how fast the senate acts the legislation will reach Mr. Hoover within the period he can kill it if he wishes by failing to attach his signature before the March 4 adjournment. President Coolidge treated just that way the similar measure congress sent him.

The house voted 216 to 153 to adopt the conference report on the resolution which had been in the making ever since the present session started.

The power plant at the Shoals under the Norris resolution would be operated by the government, transmission lines would be built by the government to carry current to the favored customers, nearby municipalities. Cover Creek dam, upstream from the Shoals in Tennessee also would be built by the government at a $10,000,000 cost. A government corporation would control the project.

Only the nitrate plants could go to private interests.

POLICE GET LIST OF AUTO OWNERS

Police are better equipped than ever to see that persons given traffic summons appear in municipal court to answer charges. A complete list of all automobile license plate numbers issued in Marion and the names of the persons to whom the plates were issued has just been contributed to police files by Mrs. D. V. Gallagher of the Marion Auto Club.

PoPlice are prepared to draw warrants immediately for all persons given traffic summons who fail to appear in court.

The north side of Church street from Prospect street to Orchard street has been designated as a no parking zone by police. The curb in this zone which includes the north side of Church street in front of the Harding high school, has been lined with no parking signs. Narrowness of the street in the section and the traffic jams forming at the beginning and closing of school hours has been responsible for this move, Chief William E. Marks said.

A new sign of the reflector type has been installed on Superior street at Prospect street, Chief Marks said.

MARION CLUB PLANS BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

Contestants To Play 72 Games in Eight-Week Schedule.

Details of a bridge tournament for members of the Marion club, to be staged during the next eight weeks, were announced today by Frank M. Knapp, chairman of the social committee and member of the board of directors.

Matches will be played on eight consecutive Tuesday nights beginning next week. The winner of the largest number of games not the holder of the highest score will be declared winner after the final games April 14, according to Knapp.

Play will begin at 8 p. m. and continue for three hours each Tuesday night. Eight games probably will be played each night, although a definite schedule has not yet been worked out.

Present registration for the contest indicates six or seven tables will be in play each Tuesday night.

If the schedule of eight games a night is carried out and each contestant is present all nights each contestant will play 72 games.

"That many games will give each player a good and bad luck a chance to counteract each other," Knapp said.

At the beginning of each night's playing, contestants will draw for partners and rotate at the end of each game. Prizes for the four high men and the one low man will be given.

dians, saying "they deserve it," and lent them money to develop irrigation. They repaid the loan from their rice crop in two years. Fifty thousand acres here are planted in wheat. It is sad to see wheat and rice straw burned, tons of thousands of tons, to get rid of it, when you pay $20 to $30 a ton for straw in New York.

A farmer could talk and write forever about this land, but human beings are more interesting than the land. First you see, and most important, a brand-new public school where 472 little girls are taught by excellent teachers. Its principal teacher is Miss Carmen Cueva. The school is named in honor of Carlos M. Calleja, an honorable teacher, who taught the governor of Sonora years ago.

The school desks were bought in New York city. Pictures on the walls include Lincoln, Washington, Obregon, Castilla, the Mexican Washington; Colonel Lindbergh and the Philadelphia liberty bell.

Among men from foreign countries that help develop this delta there is Z. O. Stocker. Born in South Carolina, he lived 18 years in Atlanta, Ga., nine years in San Antonio, Tex., and has lived 32 years here. He is a patriotic American, but says this is the place. Olof Dahlquist is one of the first 12 men that ever planted rice in California. He is a Swede.

The other 11 associated with him in the Sacramento valley were Danes. He agrees with Mr. Stocker that this is the greatest piece of land on earth, and adds that Charles XII of Sweden was the greatest man that ever lived on earth. It would please you to see that powerful Swede, chest at least 56 inches.

Church Suppers

THE floating diners whose lot is cast for the most part with transients are having a regular spree these days breaking bread with these good ladies who are sponsoring "church suppers." The suppers are the exception to the old one about the ill wind for they seem to work out to an advantage for everyone concerned. The ladies realize something for their particular project and surely no one leaves the table the least bit hungry. Of course, if you have a particular yen for noodles, you could, (providing you had the courage to ask for it) eat another plate of those home grown noodles, but you honestly don't need them with the rest of the grub. There must be a 'ketch" in it somewhere though, for who pays for it in the first place?

What Do You Do?

AND speaking of food, just stop and check on your own little oddities along this line. In ane little group of diners one person insists on having a tall glass of water, another just must have brown bread, one can't endure lettuce as a garnish for sandwiches, another loathes and despises dressing on salad. There are folks who make bread of pie and spread butter atop it, while the poor pieman would go a begging for want of business so far as another is concerned. But it's a gay life after all.

Maps

THE old-fashioned map of the United States, which once upon a time could be found tucked behind most any clock, has gone the way of the fortune-telling almanac and the betinseled calendar. It is hard to believe that not a map of the country could be found in this city by one who wanted one, oh, ever so much. To be sure there were plenty of maps showing the good roads, the detours, the national highway intersections, the tourists camps, the points of interest and everything else, but not one of those good old standbys which headlines the mighty Father of Waters dashing on to the sea, outlined carefully its tributaries and marked plainly the wrinkled old Rocky Mountains.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

BY HERBERT ADAMS

(Copyright, 1930, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

CHAPTER 22

Poisoned Evidence

JIMMIE'S first surprise when he read the note that the maid handed him was that it came from Audrey. Evidently it had been hurriedly written:

Dear Mr. Haswell: Can you come out to see me? I am in a car in front. Do not mention my name or they will ask me why.

Audrey Winford

Since Janet had told him a man had brought the note, it was easy for Jimmie to excuse himself without disclosing the writer. It was clear that Audrey was not alone.

She was sitting at the wheel of the car, in the roadway some 30 yards from the drive entrance. Behind her were Constable Roscoe and a rough-looking stranger.

Audrey was brief. "You wanted to know whose car was on the links the night Miss Querdling was killed. It was Captain Stirling's." Her expressionless voice masked deep feeling.

Where was he?" Jimmie asked.

"In the gardens."

That was in keeping with Jimmie's own discovery. "How do you know?" he asked quietly.

She introduced Willie Freeman, a caddie, who often went to the course at night to hunt for balls she, knowing this, had inquired if he had seen anything on the night of the tragedy. Convinced his story might clear an innocent person, he had told her the story he now repeated to Jimmie.

On his way home, Freeman said, he had stopped "aside the hut that's forninst the seventh green when I seed someone gettin' over the fence o' Merrow Craig. Only one 'and 'e 'ad, for it wor Captain Stirling. Stepped into 'is car, 'e did, and drove off immediate."

He said he would stand back of the story, and Audrey was on her way with Roscoe to inform Richmond, stopping to let Jimmie know of the development. Jimmie said that he would go along with them, as he had information Richmond should know.

"We'll go at once" said Audrey, eager to tell the truth she thought would clear Netherton. Then she recalled that she had forgotten to get gasoline.

"I'll ask Green for some," said Roscoe, turning into the trade entrance.

"I'd better go back and make some excuse for leaving" Jimmie decided. Then he added, "Stirling has just left. Of course, you realize the conclusion people will draw from it."

Audrey's honest eyes revealed the pain within as she told how at first she had planned to go to Stirling and disclose what she had found, then concluding that this would not be right and that she must tell Richmond. "I still think he is incapable of a mean or evil action and that there must be an explanation," she added.

As Jimmie turned toward the house, Constable Roscoe came running toward them, his usual ruddy face almost devoid of color.

"Ted Green," he gasped. "He's there—dead! He killed Miss Querdling. He has confessed!"

Jimmie, recovering from his first shock, turned quickly toward the garage, followed by Audrey. As they hastened Roscoe explained that he had called for Green but had got no reply, and had then gone upstairs since he saw a light in the room, and had called through the closed door. Still getting no reply, he had opened the door and made the tragic discovery.

The big doors to the garage were closed as the little party approached and entered the open smaller door leading to the stairs and Green's rooms. At the door of the room Jimmie's quick eye saw the chauffeur's body sprawled half on and half off a chair, his arms thrown on the table on which his head and shoulders rested. He was wearing his uniform breeches and a gray flannel shirt. On the table was an ordinary beer bottle and a glass three parts empty, a sheet of paper, a notebook, an ink bottle and a pen.

On the mantel piece there stood seven beer bottles and in a corner were four empty bottles. The uniform coat was thrown over another chair in the scantily furnished room.

At first, as Roscoe had said, Green appeared dead, but a sudden convulsive movement brought Jimmie and the others to his side. He was in a kind of stupor, beads of perspiration stood on his forehead, and it seemed as though consciousness might return. The constable pointed silently to the sheet of paper lying by the empty bottle. Its message was brief, the writing was clear:

I killed Miss Querdling. Something came over me and I did it and now I am sorry. There is suspicion everywhere and I cannot sleep and so I am taking the best way out.

That night I thought all of a sudden I would ask the mistress to let me stay on and I went to her in the dutch garden and then I knew she would refuse and something came over me and I felt all mad with her and instead of speaking I pushed the image and it fell on her and I went away to Ben and asked for my hammer. That is all.

Edward Green.

Good bye, Janet. Forgive me.

"We must get a doctor at once" Jimmie said as he left for the house with Audrey. Roscoe remaining with Green. The little party in the card-room had been waiting for Jimmie who told them briefly what had happened and phoned Dr. Netherton. Meanwhile Audrey explaining in more detail did not divulge why she had first called, since she felt that Ted Green's confession had made that unnecessary.

After Netherton had promised to come, Jimmie telephoned Richmond, who said he would await the doctor's report ordering Roscoe meanwhile to remain by Green's side. With Roscoe's help, Jimmie placed the body on the bed. Another convulsive movement indicated life, though the stupor continued.

Leaving Green's bed room, Jimmie returned to the other room and reread the confession, written on a sheet of paper similar to that in the chauffeur's daily mileage book which his employer required him to keep. The record was entered up to the very last day, even to the note for that afternoon—" Mr. Vincent, Rockhurst and round 62 miles." Near the end of the book he found the place from which the sheet had been torn.

To most of those in the card room, now discussing the startling occurrence, the confession came as a relief. Vincent recalled that on the drive he had taken that afternoon Green had seemed his usual self, and none seemed to have hard things to say concerning the chauffeur, although Evelyn mentioned his uncertain temper. "One good thing," Vincent commented "it will help old Morgan to get a move on. No one can suggest Green had anything to do with the will."

Dr. Netherton found Jimmie and Roscoe waiting beside Green when he arrived. The stupor continued, with occasional convulsive spasms. Jimmie had a suggestion.

"Do you want a nurse? Audrey Winford is in the house."

Netherton shot a quick glance at him. "Not at present," he said tersely.

He looked at the small quantity of beer left in the glass. In color it was normal. He put a spot on his tongue and spat it out again.

"Very bitter," he said. "Poison, of course, something uncommon—I cannot say what. I think we had better get him to the hospital."

"Will you speak to Richmond?" Jimmie asked. "He is waiting to know."

Before Netherton could reply there was another movement from the figure on the bed. Green's eyes opened and his lips moved as if to speak.

Famous Request of Cyrus the Great

By The Schaffner-Queen Co.

Cyrus, the great Persian emperor, speaks to us down through the centuries. His last message is immortalized. It appears, in the Persian character, on his tomb—and reads:

"O man, whosoever thou art, and whensoever thou comest (for come I know thou wilt), I am Cyrus, the founder of the Persian Empire; envy me not the little earth which covers my body."

A great man's greatest wish—that he be accorded consideration and security in his last resting place! It is (is it not?) the fervent hope of everyone!

To fulfill this hope—in so far as it is within his power and sphere to do so—is the efficient funeral director's highest endeavor. He strives for perfection in every detail of his professional services, and provides, in the burial appointments, all the permanency that human skill and ingenuity can devise.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY, and no school on Saturday. It was still warm. Not warm enough to go swimming, and not warm enough to stand in the window in a fella's shirttail when he has to let his dog down, but not cold enough to snow.

I bet when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth this morning he was sorry I had been so nice to him as to go between the houses and heap up the dirt so he wouldn't have to land in a puddle; because the heap had kinda settled down in the puddle and wasn't dried out at all and when he landed he landed in it. He looked up at me and I bet if I could only know what his yelp meant he called me something. I said "You are another, you mut!" and shut the window down, and my ant said from the bottom of the stairs:

"Who are you talking to, Thomas Aristides?" I said I was talking to myself and she said she just believed I had a boy up there with me and she was coming up to see, so I flang the rope into a dark corner and was putting on my short britches when she got upstairs, and she looked all around and didn't find anyone, and she said, "Sometimes I think boys haven't got good sense." I didn't tell her what I think about ants. If I had she would of knowed she couldn't munky with me and get away with it. But it is true even if she don't know it.

When I had milked the dummed brutes we all went around to the school to see if Mush would give us a ride in his dump truck, but he said nothing doing. I told him all right, and then I reached in the Lost Bag of Tripe's pocket who was standing by me and pulled out some flat headed nails and offered them to Mush and told him they might come in handy if he had to fix anything, and he remembered the nail he found in his tire, and he made a jump for the Lost Bag of Tripe, but his foot caught on the truck somewhere and it was certainly lucky for him that he had such a big round stummick to land on. He went "Whump!" when he landed and just then his wife came running out of the basement, and she helped him up and he was pretty muddy and she helped him in the basement and he was limping with both feet and groaning all the way.

We all skun out and went to the pasture and we got the bark off an old dead tree that was by the fence and made boats of it and sailed them in the creek loaded with mud and had quite a good time. The Lost Bag of Tripe called me a crook for stowing Mush the nails, and when I started to shame him he took his hunk which was loaded with mud and flung the mud at me, and what didn't land on me landed on that rest of the [illegible]

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky, Playing a "Hunch," Starts an Investigation.

"JUST what do you suspect?" I asked quietly when Dicky said that he would like to see what a good private investigator could dig up about the owner of the big blue sedan which the pseudo bank bandits were supposed to have stolen.

"Here's the idea." He turned from my mirror where he had been brushing his hair, he says that my mirror is better than his and always comes into my room when he is preparing for a journey. I humor him in his pretense, hugging to my heart the while that my restless Peter Pan likes to have me around when he is starting on a journey if for nothing else as he tells me sometimes mischievously, "but to blame things on me."

"These birds that pulled this fake are the cagiest ever, but—did you notice anything about the rather crass humor of that epistle they penned on the parchment and put into the oiled paper?"

I put into words a vague idea that had been in the back of my mind ever since the morning when we had opened the oiled silk packet.

"It was a bit reminiscent of Samuel Brixton."

He put down his brush and stared at me.

"Not so slow yourself are you Sherlockia?" he said.

Madge's Good Hunch

"It was only a vague impression," I said, "and I may be wrong."

"Why hedge on a good hunch?" Dicky demanded. "I didn't think of it at first but after two or three readings of the thing I began to find a knothole or two where the sunlight was streaming through. You see Harry doesn't know Brixton at all, you remember how carefully he absented himself from the party, and I'll bet in exactly the state of mind to see anything, she loathes Brixton so much and is so taken up with Harry's emotional reactions to the whole thing. Did saw practically nothing of the man, either so you and I are the only ones who can judge the thing with any authority."

"Are you going to tell father your impressions?" I asked.

"Why," he countered "everything's settled down now, and he has enough on his mind with these preparations he's making for guarding the house from those Chinese. The Lord knows I want you and the children well protected but it's my opinion that the respected parent is going a bit nutty on the subject. A person would think he expected another Boxer Rebellion to be staged in the front yard. I don't see why he doesn't plan to build another Chinese Wall around the farm."

But his voice was subdued as he uttered the strictures and the sympathizing laugh with which I answered him was also low. Neither of us would have wounded my father for anything, and nothing could have so stung him as to know that we deemed him fussy and over anxious.

"Then I'll say nothing to him about the letter reminding me of Samuel Brixton," I decided. "But tell me what you'll start a 'good private investigator to hunting?'"

"The past and present associates business and friendly, of the gent who owns that stolen blue sedan lately occupying a commanding position upon the bed of Peconic Bay. Oh! I know what the police will find. He'll be an eminently respectable citizen and he'll have been squawking all over the place about his stolen car, and the negligence of the police, and so forth—the usual spiel. And after a few cursory inquiries the police will dismiss all investigation in his direction, and he'll go back home and start fussing with his insurance policies. But I'd like to follow the red wool thread a little farther through the maze."

On the Trail of the Stolen Car

"Thinking you'd find what when you finally reach Rosamond's bower?" I asked smiling.

"If I ever reach it, there won't be any bower, nothing but a heap of kindling," he declared vindictively. "I'm playing the hunch, of course, that the unknown owner of the blue sedan is a pal of Brixton's and permitted his car to be 'stolen', incidentally collecting some nifty insurance, even if it survives its bath in the bay. But how to prove it. That particular trail will be well covered, you can gamble on that."

"I'll take your word," I told him smiling. "But, ought you not to be starting pretty soon? The boys' train gets in at noon, you know."

"And it's all of seven now," Dicky retorted with a teasing smile at me. "If I can't drive in reverse all the way to New York and arrive at the Grand Central in time to collect Hank and Bill, I'll turn in my driver's license and never touch a wheel again."

I laughed as I never can help doing at his extravagances, but I slipped out of the room nevertheless, upon the plea of seeing to his breakfast. I knew if I stayed he would dawdle and find any pretext possible to keep me talking, for Dicky, who never misses a train, always waits until the last possible or, rather, impossible second, to start an automobile journey.

"You must start, dear," I told him indistently, later, when he was smoking his after-breakfast cigar and talking what his mother would call "a blue streak" to me. "You know Hank and Bill aren't used to
